COMMENTS: Biaster Hewitt George request a waive and states the following: During the time of filing my campaign finance forms 10-and 10-G the internet was giving her problems, which happens from time to time in her small hometown. When the Internet was working, the campaign finance web site kept making her start over even after It showed her that she successfully filed. She tried to file hard copies, which was sent back because they had to be filed electronically. In September of 2019 she attended teacher conference in Shreveport and thought that she could to try again on her laptop through the hotel where she knew that the internet would be working properly. The same problem occurred: So, she sought help from the campaign finance IT department and gave permission to enter her laptop and see what she may have been doing wrong. She was able to confirm that her papers were filed successfully.
